

10 years together
Delivering HND in China

20th May 2013

A word from the First Minister of Scotland.

Scotland has a world-class education system with a deserved reputation for academic excellence and quality. The Scottish Government has supported the links that the Scottish Qualifications Authority has developed with its Chinese partners and Universities and we are delighted that these have grown and flourished. Both Scotland and China recognise the value of education and personal development to the success of our people and our nations.

The Scottish Government is committed to developing a sustainable long-term relationship with China and the Chinese people based on shared values, partnership and trust. The SQA's success in China has been a truly magnificent example of how we can broaden and deepen links and common interests between our nations. Today is about celebrating a significant milestone in that relationship.

I am sorry that I can't be with you today but I send my best wishes and congratulations to everyone picking up an award. Be very proud of your achievements and my best wishes for the future.

Rt Hon. Alex Salmond MSP
First Minister of Scotland

A very warm Scottish welcome to everyone attending our 10 year Anniversary Celebration today.

The past 10 years have been exceptional and special. SQA has developed and sustained an effective partnership with the Chinese Service Centre for Scholarly Exchange (CSCSE) and Chinese Universities. Over 16,000 Chinese students have graduated with HND qualifications and are now pursuing further studies or careers that will benefit the economic development of China.

I am pleased that SQA has been able to play a part in that on-going success. I congratulate everyone here today to collect a recognition Award. You are truly inspirational people. Have an enjoyable afternoon and celebrate your success. Well done!

Dr Janet Brown, Chief Executive,
Scottish Qualifications Authority

On behalf of CSCSE, I am delighted to have you here to participate and share with us the 10-year Anniversary of the CSCSE-SQA HND programme in China.

Being jointly introduced into China by CSCSE and SQA in 2003, the programme has been growing steadily and achieving reputable recognition over the years. Today, we gather to honor the great contributions of the relevant parties and to award the excellent achievements of our students.

Wishing you all enjoyed the events this afternoon and look forward to your continuous support to the programme in the next 10 years!

Mr. Bai Zhangde, Director General,
Chinese Service Centre for Scholarly Exchange
